1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Defendant and Plaintiff agreed that if the latter helped them save a fortune, 3 they would let him keep teaching. Exhibit A to the First Amended Complaint 4 (“FAC”) demonstrates that the Defendant communicated - throughout its entire 5 constituency - that the contracts were authorized, and Plaintiff’s performance was 6 complete such that Defendant’s past, continued, and projected performance could be 7 acted upon. That is, to keep its promise to Plaintiff to allow him to continue 8 teaching. Employees, students, and Plaintiff all relied on Defendant’s position. In 9 their 17-page Memorandum, Defendant failed to address the express writings 10 showing that they had agreed to pay their share. ECF #33, 33-1. That’s right – 11 nothing. Rather than address the evidence of express authorization, Defendant 12 ignored all of it, including all of Plaintiff’s actions in reliance on Defendant, its 13 various constituent schools such as Anderson and UCLA, the IT Department, and 14 the course registrar. Defendant believes, apparently, that California law protects the 15 massive confidence scam on all of its interested parties, including its students, by all 16 of its interested parties because the statute that allows the university freedom to 17 contract does not name the Plaintiff himself as someone with whom it can contract.
18

19 As for the discriminatory basis of Defendant’s actions, here too they ignore 20 the law. The Defendant’s agents knowingly acted in a matter forbidden by law 21 because their desired basis to not promote Plaintiff was barred. Instead, they used 22 Plaintiff’s Jewishness to treat him in a manner it would not have treated others to get 23 their desired-yet-wrongful result. Defendant’s extra-pleading info (which, if used as 24 Defendant suggests, convert this to a matter for summary judgment) demonstrate it.

25 Defendant’s use of extra-pleading exhibits to bias the Court against Plaintiff 26 is coupled with a misunderstanding of contract, tort, and quantum meruit law in 27 California to hope the Court dismisses the action wholesale. Instead, Defendant’s 28 wrongful acts and breach, should be met with a denial of their motion.

1 II. ARGUMENT

2 A. FAC Discrimination Claims (I-IV) Allege Plausible Title VII and FEHA
3 Claims Of Disparate Treatment Based On Plaintiff's Jewishness

4 The FAC details the wrongful solicitation of, inclusion of, and reliance on the 5 “FALSE REVIEW” (¶¶ 29-34) in Defendant’s employment decision. The FALSE 6 REVIEW was discriminatory in nature on its face, with two, separate, negative, 7 references to Plaintiff’s Jewishness lacking context to an educational setting. Id. Its 8 inclusion led to the Faculty Committee devolving into an “UNCOMFORTABLE 9 WITH JEWS REVIEWS” fantasy (¶ 148(j)-(l)), whereby Plaintiff purportedly made 10 an invented mass of students uncomfortable who then never left bad reviews, to 11 explain the disproportionately excellent reviews for Plaintiff. Plaintiff alleges the 12 Defendant thereby discriminatorily treated Plaintiff because of his Jewishness as 13 they would not and have never treated any other similarly situated religious group 14 (or national origin). FAC ¶ 35. Defendant’s arguments do not address any of this but 15 rather rely on one legal defense – other plausible explanations¹. Defendant has two 16 separate theories to support this defense, but both fail as a matter of law.

17 Defendant argues that where there is another plausible explanation² in the 18 Complaint other than discrimination, the Court must deny the discriminatory bases 19 alleged. ECF #33-1 pg. 15-16. Defendant fails to cite any discrimination cases that 20 support this proposition because that’s not how the law works. First, the purported 21 motivating factor offered by the FAC was that Defendant wished to preserve more 22 classes for its tenured faculty in the face of deliberately lowering enrollment to

23

¹ Defendant’s second reason, that Plaintiff has always been avowedly and openly 25 Jewish - appears to be some sort of laches argument mixed with “but we hired you 26 in the first place so we can’t possibly have done something wrong later” defense.
Neither is worth merit nor supported by law. It can’t be addressed seriously.

27 ² Defendant relies on Orellanos for this proposition, which was not a discrimination 28 case.

1 boost rankings. Id. And the FAC does indeed allege that motivation. Id. (citing ECF 2 #24 ¶ 143, 145). But in its memorandum, Defendant failed to address the 3 intervening paragraph (¶ 144³) which shows that Defendant is barred from using a 4 self-created student intake dilemma as a reason to deny Plaintiff's promotion by 5 controlling contract.

6 The FAC then describes a host of bizarre actions taken to deny Plaintiff's 7 promotion in the face his overwhelming success. ECF #24 ¶ 148. But, as noted 8 above, these actions were only taken because of Plaintiff's Jewishness. The 9 Defendant's assertion that this other "plausible explanation" fails as a matter of law.
10 To defeat a discrimination claim, the other plausible reason must not only be non-11 discriminatory but must also be "legitimate." EEOC v. Boeing Co., 577 F.3d 1044, 12 1049 (9th Cir. 2009) (citing Chuang v. Univ. of Cal. Davis, 225 F.3d 1115, 1123-24 13 (9th Cir. 2000)). Here, the FAC demonstrates that the reason was illegitimate in the 14 face of the FAC allegations. Defendant was barred from it as a matter of law. So, 15 they grabbed a Jewishness-based review (FALSE REVIEW) to deny the promotion.
16 Defendant has not made a valid argument rooted in discrimination cases, nor can it.

17 Defendant next tries to give other "plausible" explanations by going outside 18 the pleadings to include new documents. The Court need not question the existence 19 of the documents, only for what they stand. As such, Defendant proudly uses them 20 to rebut factual assertions in the FAC attempting to convert this matter to a summary 21 judgment proceeding absent Plaintiff's ability to procure evidence⁴. ECF #34-1 pgs.

22 _____
23 ³ "Defendant however was barred from answering 'Do We Need You' with a 'No; 24 as much as it may have wanted to based on the NSF 18 CBA controlling language – the 19th Quarter hire had already happened." ECF # 24 ¶ 144 (referencing the 25 explanatory ¶¶ 127-131).

26 ⁴ Plaintiff believes relying on the factual assertions inside these documents to rebut 27 factual assertions in the FAC (rather than the mere inclusion of these documents for 28 their uncontested existence) converts this matter to a Motion for Summary Judgment. Swartz v. KPMG LLP, 476 F.3d 756, 763 (9th Cir. 2007)

1 15-16. The Court must scrutinize documents incorporated by reference to keep from 2 resolving factual issues. Lee v. City of Los Angeles, 250 F.3d 668, 688 (9th Cir.
3 2001). Here, Defendants want the scrutiny for another reason. In a crass appeal to 4 authority, it wishes the Court to believe the veracity of the contents of the exhibits to 5 bias the Court against Plaintiff. The Court should treat the wrongful attempt to 6 persuade it with the contents like the FAC describes the contents “nonsensical.”

7 To its credit, Defendant has shared the standard Plaintiff must meet – 8 Plaintiff must only provide a “plausible” explanation for discrimination. ECF #33-1 9 pg. 14. Defendant, relying on factual statements of opinion in incorporated 10 documents, has decided for this Court that its explanations are “more plausible” and 11 “most plausible.” ECF #33-1 pgs. 15-16. Although the Court may appreciate 12 Defendant’s ruling on the matter in the Court’s stead, Plaintiff need only provide a 13 plausible explanation. Defendant’s entire motion cannot find any implausibility in 14 Plaintiff’s claims, which are plausible on their face, but only wish that their new 15 reasons are “more plausible” or even, “the most plausible.”⁵ What Defendant really 16 wants the Court to do is find Plaintiff’s well-plead allegations “implausible” of its 17 own accord, since Defendant’s have not themselves don’t dispute “plausible.”

18 But even if the Court were to conduct a mini trial on the matter before it, 19 Plaintiff would still win. Plaintiff’s FAC alleges that the incorporated-by-reference 20 documents only offer pretextual reasons which Plaintiff may rebut. Texas Dep’t of 21 Community Affairs v. Burdine, 450 U.S. 248, 254-56 (1981) (the burden shifts to the 22 Defendant to prove the non-discriminatory reasons); Id. at 253 (citing McDonnell 23

24 _____
25 ⁵ Ironically, Defendant believes that Dean Bernardo’s claim that Plaintiff lacked 26 professionalism while facially relying on the FALSE REVIEW related to his 27 Jewishness is non-discriminatory. That will be a matter for Dean Bernardo to 28 explain under oath and the Court to determine factually. Had the Faculty Review and Dean Bernardo not relied on the FALSE REVIEW, Counts I-IV, would be weakened. But they did. And they said they did.

1 Douglas Corp. v. Green, 411 U.S. 792, 804 (1973)) (allows Plaintiff the opportunity 2 to rebut the Defendant's assertions). Plaintiff's FAC goes a long way towards 3 rebutting Defendant's assertions via the referenced documents. ECF #24 ¶ 33 (after 4 relying on the FALSE REVIEW, "Dean Bernardo's review is fantastical and 5 nonsensical and cannot be viewed with any meaning without the whole file."); ¶165-6 166 ("Chairman Sood confirmed the general basis of the Faculty Review as having 7 been conducted inappropriately... counteract the effect of the FACULTY 8 REVIEW"); ¶ 173 ("Dean Bernardo continued bad faith behavior of 9 inventing...standards...Dean Bernardo's assessment ('COVER UP LETTER'), after 10 being hidden from Plaintiff, was more subterfuge...The list of obvious and self-11 rebutting claims from Dean Bernardo's COVER UP LETTER is too long to analyze, 12 but is evident from the record of information he reviewed and referenced⁶."
13 In fact, the allegations in the FAC listed above, give more than enough 14 evidence (coupled with the full review file were Defendant courageous enough to 15 have included it⁷) to defeat even a Summary Judgment motion on the pretextual 16 basis of the Defendant's purported reasons. "[A] plaintiff's prima facie case, 17 combined with sufficient evidence to find that the employer's asserted justification is 18

19 ⁶ One example is explicitly demonstrated when comparing Dean Bernardo's letter, 20 the Faculty Committee Review, and the statements of the Director and Dr. Olav 21 Sorenson in their written reviews and Dr. Sorenson's statements in the Faculty Review.

22 ⁷ See Khoja v. Orexigen Therapeutics, Inc., 899 F.3d 988, 998 (9th Cir. 2018) ("the 23 unscrupulous use of extrinsic documents to resolve competing theories against the 24 complaint risks premature dismissals of plausible claims that may turn out to be 25 valid after discovery."); see also United States v. Reese, 666 F.3d 1007, 1019 (7th 26 Cir. 2012) ("A statement admitted on 'completeness' grounds must be connected 27 contextually to the previously introduced evidence, such that the exclusion of that 28 statement is likely to create an incomplete, misleading, or distorted picture of the evidence."); see also United States v. Collicott, 92 F.3d 973, 983 (9th Cir. 1996), as amended (Oct. 21, 1996) (discussing the rule of completeness).

1 false, may permit the trier of fact to conclude that the employer unlawfully
2 discriminated.” Reeves v. Sanderson Plumbing Products, Inc., 530 U.S. 133, 148 3 (2000). “A plaintiff may meet the burden to show pretext using either direct or 4 circumstantial evidence.” Coghlan v. American Seafoods Co. LLC, 413 F.3d 1090, 5 1094-95 (9th Cir. 2005); Timmerman v. U. S. Bank, N.A., 483 F.3d 1106, 1113 (10th 6 Cir. 2007) (“A showing of pretext does not require a plaintiff to offer any direct 7 evidence of actual discrimination.”).

8 Discrimination cases are plead under Rule 8(a) – a simplified pleading 9 standard. Swierkiewicz v. Sorema N.A., 534 U.S. 506, 513 (2002). Plaintiffs have 10 made a plausible claim for discrimination. Defendant tells this Court that, based on 11 what some of their people wrote (“look at it, here it is!”⁸), that Plaintiff’s detailed 12 allegations, including the pretextual basis of Defendant’s writings should not be 13 considered when it must be even at summary judgment. Counts I-IV should proceed

14 B. Plaintiff And Defendant Entered Into A Valid Contract, Which Plaintiff
15 Performed, Defendant Recognized, Marketed, and Then Breached

16 1. Plaintiff Alleges That The Contracts Were Duly Authorized And 17 Reduced To Writing Which Have Not Been Judicially Estopped

18 Defendant claims Plaintiff does not allege an authorized contract and Plaintiff 19 should be judicially estopped from arguing that the contracts in question were not 20 oral contracts. Defendant says that the Plaintiff did not allege that the contracts were 21 authorized. ECF #33-1 pgs. 1, 3, 9, 11, 12. That’s just false. ECF #24 ¶¶ 9, 25-26, 22 57, 160, 247, 253, 285, 288; Cf. ¶ 259 (pled in the alternative). Also, Defendant ask 23 the Court to ignore the common sense alleged – the Regents are constitutionally and 24 statutorily authorized to hire the very best of educators, such as Plaintiff. Also, 25 average ones. Defendant instead is suggesting that the Regents, who are authorized

26
27

28 ⁸ Defendant is trying to execute a common state-court maneuver - to get the paper in front of the judge to sway his/her first impression.

1 to contract, are also not authorized to contract with Plaintiff, or that Plaintiff must 2 find out where the code lists his name, or his claims fail. That's not the FRCP 8(a) 3 pleading standard. Plaintiff provides adequate proof that the contracts in question 4 were performed and reduced to writing, so much so that Defendant's performance of 5 the Contracts was broadcast between all of its constituents with the proper 6 authorizations and even marketed to students. ECF #24-1. They were authorized.

7 Defendant's inappropriate reference to allegations in the original Complaint
8 to declare oral contracts in the FAC misapplies the concept of judicial estoppel. ECF 9 #33-1 pg. 11. Defendant shows a concerning misunderstanding of the law and the 10 use of this Court's limited resources. Plaintiff's decision not to stand on the original 11 complaint to allow the Court to hear the FAC in its stead cannot possibly prejudice 12 Plaintiff's ability to re-plead under the concept of judicial estoppel as Defendant 13 wishes. Interstate Fire & Casualty Co. v. Underwriters at Lloyd's, London, 139 F.3d 14 1234, 1239 (9th Cir. 1998); Masayesva v. Hale, 118 F.3d 1371, 1382 (9th Cir. 1997) 15 (judicial estoppel's application is limited to cases where the court relied on, or 16 'accepted,' the party's previous inconsistent position). This (or any other) Court here 17 has not acted. Thus, judicial estoppel could not yet apply. If Defendant were allowed 18 to prevail on the theory that repleading-as-result-of-conference invoked judicial 19 estoppel, litigants would act in ways to further tax judicial resources to avoid that 20 outcome. Defendant makes no direct citation to counter standing law; it shows Court 21 its desired result⁹, binding precedent ignored.

22 Defendant wishes the contract were oral so it could apply particular defenses.
23 But that should not concern the Court given the allegations in the FAC and the 24 results of Exh. A. E.g. ECF # 24 ¶¶ 157, 159, 235, 236, 238 ("reduced the 25 agreement to a writing"; "The Defendant coordinated all of these activities through 26 normal processes and procedures including the writings in Exhibit A which included listing Plaintiff in their course directory out 1-2 years in the future even without APPOINTMENT); “Defendant reduced its obligations under the agreement and its intentions to writing”; “Defendant reduced to writing these intentions to fulfill its end of the contract”). What Defendant appears perturbed about is that the FAC does not state there was an oral contract. Nor should it. Plaintiff performed his obligations under the contract prior to the writings, such that the only parts left to write down were Defendant obligations which they both performed for years and wrote down. Id. The Defendant entirely controlled the length of the Contract because the Defendant controlled how long MGMT 169, at first an experimental course, would be offered. ECF #24 ¶ 76. Even had they been as Defendant wished, oral contracts, once made are thereafter reduced to writings, which show a meeting of the minds. McKeon v. Giusto, 44 Cal. 2d 152, 158 (1955) (“It is not uncommon, however, for parties to make an oral agreement with the intention to reduce it to writing or supersede it by a new written contract”). Defendant printed its obligation for the world to see and rely. ECF #24-1. The factfinder deduces the rest. McKeon at 158. Here, a fact-accepter under FRCP Rule 12(b)(6) understands through the writings (and the allegations in the FAC) that Defendant had every intent for the contract to be immediately effective, particularly because it had been performed for years. Until it didn’t. Although the writings in Exhibit A adequately demonstrate some writings, clearly the internal operations of Defendant will show even more as to how the entire university knew that Plaintiff was teaching for years into the future prior to the breach of the contract. ECF # 24-1. That’s the purpose of discovery.

27
28 ⁹ This tactic again seems rather like state court practice.

Defendant may prove, with evidence, that it was not an authorized contract or those that purported to be authorized were not authorized, but Plaintiff has met the pleading standard of an authorized contract is breached.

2. Even If The Contract Were Not Determined To Be In Writing At A Later Stage, Plaintiff’s Contract Claims Would Survive Under An Implied-In-Fact Or Contract Completion In California Law

1 Defendant rightly raises concerns of “oral contracts” being willy-nilly 2 enforced against public entities. The Court need not fear in this situation. Implied-in- 3 fact contracts can be applied against public entities. Youngman v. Nevada Irrigation
4 District, 70 Cal. 2d 240, 246-47 (1969). That includes Defendant, specifically.
5 Requa v. Regents of University of California, 213 Cal. App. 4th 213, 228 (2012). “In 6 pleading a cause of action on an agreement implied from conduct, only the facts 7 from which the promise is implied must be alleged.” Id. They are alleged. And they 8 are evidenced in writings. ECF #24-1. And they were performed for years. ECF #24 9 ¶ 90, . The allegations in the above subsection, the terms of the contract, its 10 reduction in writing, the mass distribution of the Defendant’s intention to pay, and 11 the promulgating of it to its own customers (the students) demonstrate that the 12 contract in question was indeed implied-in-fact. Division of Labor Law Enforcement 13 v. Transpacific Transportation Co., 69 Cal. App. 3d 268, 275 (1977) (“While an 14 express contract is defined as one, the terms of which are stated in words (Civ.
15 Code, § 1620), an implied contract is an agreement, the existence and terms of 16 which are manifested by conduct.”). Defendant does not challenge the nature of 17 contract. Plaintiff has asked this Court to find an implied agreement (ECF #24 ¶ 18 256). Both an implied agreement and promissory estoppel (infra) are factual matters 19 for the Court to determine. Transpacific at 279 (“the elements of an implied in fact 20 agreement and promissory estoppel call for factual determination and can be 21 adjudicated only on an ad hoc basis, by taking into consideration the peculiar facts 22 presented by the individual case.”)

23 By Defendant’s confusing tale, no authorized person authorized telling 24 Plaintiff, all departments, the IT staff, and the students that Plaintiff was being 25 offered the chance to teach absent anyone’s authority to say so. The performance – 26 allowing Plaintiff to teach - was promulgated to the entire school through the course 27 system for as far out as the system showed courses, more than a year. ECF #24-1.
28 Coordination occurred throughout the various bodies. Id. Hirings were made. ECF

1 #24 ¶ 158€. These were reduced to writing after Plaintiff performed. ECF #24-1.
2 Well. ECF # 24 ¶ 19. Defendant performed for years, unilaterally modified, and 3 expressed its continued obeisance to its obligations under the contract out to the 4 world. Students marched in protest when it was breached. ECF#24 ¶¶ 175-82. In 5 that scenario, the Court can ‘fix it’ and should. Cal. Civ. Code § 1643 (“A contract 6 must receive such an interpretation as will make it lawful, operative, definite, 7 reasonable, and capable of being carried into effect, if it can be done without 8 violating the intention of the parties.”). When a contract of any type is performed for 9 years, its terms are deemed ascertainable to certainty, as here. Dallman Co. v.
10 Southern Heater Co., 262 Cal. App. 2d 582, 587 (1968)). The contracts breached 11 after Plaintiff’s excellent performance. Count V should proceed.

12 C. Defendant Has Misread The Law For Public Entity Tort Immunity With 13 The Facts Alleged For Counts VI and VII.

14 Plaintiff and Defendant conferred related to Count VI and Cal. Gov’t Code § 15 815.2(a). ECF # 26 pg. 5. Defendant instead claims blanket immunity and does not 16 address the known exception Plaintiff shared in advance. ECF #33-1 (see pgs. 12-17 13). Plaintiff has adequately alleged in Count VI that: “an act or omission of an 18 employee of the public entity within the scope of his employment if the act or 19 omission would...have given rise to a cause of action against that employee.” The 20 immunity protection Defendant seeks for Count VI does not exist as allegations of 21 fraudulent inducement in Count VI fall outside of the ambit of misrepresentation, 22 which is read narrowly. Michael J. v. Los Angeles County Department of Adoptions, 23 201 Cal. App. 3d 859, 868 (1988) (citing Johnson v. State of California, 69 Cal. 2d 24 782, 780 (1968)). Defendant has waived any claim that the count otherwise fails or 25 that the employees would not be liable. A reply brief is not the venue for new 26 arguments. Count VI should proceed.

27 As for Count VII Misrepresentation (where § 815.2(a) would not apply), the 28 FAC alleges the service involved is a public benefit – the provision of adoption

1 services or as in this case, the provision of higher education. In this scenario, typical 2 tort immunity does not apply. Michael J. at 872 (immunities do not apply when the 3 transaction is non-commercial and to “serve the interests of society”). The 4 difference between an immune transaction is the provision of the public benefit – 5 the provision of educational services – rather than economic damages. That is the 6 key distinction.

7 The FAC seemingly spends inordinate amount of time discussing the 8 commercial, legal, advocacy, academic, and public service background of Plaintiff.
9 ECF #24, passim. Plaintiff’s allegations can lead to no other conclusion that the 10 claims in Count VII are non-commercial for two reasons. First, Plaintiff’s footprint 11 and allegations are congruent. An attorney who spends his practice in volunteer 12 work for judicial reform – like it or not – is not first and foremost “commercially-13 minded.”¹⁰ Defendant even acknowledged it - slotting him to teach and make 14 rigorous their own Social Entrepreneurship offering. ECF #24 ¶¶ 150-52. Second, 15 Plaintiff’s alleged commercial success, legal professional accomplishments, media 16 notoriety, and academic pursuits, lead to the conclusion that he may have other 17 commercial opportunities – less public interest minded – to fill his time. His 18 provision of the public interest good is non-commercial in nature. Defendant simply 19 ignores this commercial and non-commercial distinction (even with advance notice), 20 claiming blanket immunity from common law torts.

21 Here, the issue for the Court to determine is a factual one – was the service 22 provided for a public benefit as alleged in the FAC (some 20+ times in various 23 ways). Another way to look at it is with the prayer for relief. Does providing the 24 public benefit of education as redress (say, instead of damages) solve the issue? The 25 FAC’s prayer for relief lays out precisely non-economic, public benefit/interest 26

27 ¹⁰ Plaintiff coined the legal profession’s (and judiciary’s) treatment of judicial 28 reform: “The one area of practice a lawyer is paid not to do.”

1 remedies ECF #24 pgs. 51-52 ((E), (F), (I)). It's a factual issue the Defendant has 2 otherwise waived at this stage (again). Count VII should proceed.

3 D. Equitable Estoppel Can Be A Standalone Basis For Relief But Otherwise 4 The FAC Adequately Pleads Promissory Estoppel.

5 Defendant claims *equitable estoppel*¹¹ - listed in the header of Count VIII - is 6 not a standalone count. Courts do recognize it, including the same appellate court 7 that says it does not exist. See Krolikowski v. San Diego City Employees' Retirement
8 System, 24 Cal. App. 5th 537, 567 n.21 (2018); also see Hill v. Kaiser Aetna, 130
9 Cal. App. 3d 188, 191 (1982) ("we conclude that estoppel by conduct is a proper 10 theory upon which to find entitlement for a bonus."); Porporato v. Devincenzi, 261 11 Cal. App. 2d 670, 678-79 (1968); Cal. Evid. Code § 623. Federal courts examine 12 standalone equitable estoppel state law claims in California too without existential 13 dismissals. See Bay Area Surgical Mgmt., LLC v. Principal Life Ins. Co., No. 5:12-14 CV-01140 EJD, 2012 WL 4058373 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 14, 2012) (dismissed on other 15 grounds, while fully examined as a valid claim). However, even if it were not a 16 standalone count, the principles of estoppel by conduct apply to the very same 17 contract arguments Defendant is making throughout the Memorandum. And should 18 the Court not allow Count VIII to stand alone, it should clearly apply its unrebutted 19 arguments and §623 to Defendant's claims therein.

20 But Count VIII should stand for a more obvious reason. It pleads promissory 21 estoppel. "A promise which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action 22 or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the promisee and 23 which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided 24 only by enforcement of the promise." Hilltop Properties, Inc. v. State, 233 Cal. App.
25 2d 349, 362 (1965). "[C]ourts are given wide discretion in its application." US
26 Ecology, Inc. v. State of California, 129 Cal. App. 4th 887, 888 (2005). It's pled

27
28 ¹¹ Also known as estoppel by conduct.

1 element by element. Id. at 901. In this case, for promissory estoppel not to be 2 enforceable against Defendant, it would have to allege that everyone in the 3 university who performed under the contract for years, then published and 4 advertised Defendant's future performance and Plaintiff's future teaching at the 5 university were part of a grand illegal conspiracy. Hilltop Properties, at 365 6 ("promissory estoppel may be invoked against a governmental body where it would 7 not...result in the indirect enforcement of an illegal contract.")

8 The pleading standards do not require the level of precision that Defendant 9 now suggests they need. "Having informed the [Defendant] of the factual basis for 10 their complaint, they were required to do no more to stave off threshold dismissal 11 for want of an adequate statement of their claim." Johnson v. City of Shelby, 574 12 U.S. 10, 12 (2014) (reversing a dismissal when the Plaintiff failed to name the 13 correct basis for the claim). Courts in the Ninth Circuit can discriminate between the 14 two estoppels as can officers of its courts – Defendant's attorneys. E.g. Jablon v.
15 United States, 657 F.2d 1064, 1069 (9th Cir. 1981) (the 'estoppel' of which he 16 speaks is promissory estoppel. The equitable 'estoppel' cases he cites are 17 inapposite."). Other courts understand estoppel confusions finding "mislabeled of 18 the claim does not bar [the] court's further consideration." E.g. Larsen v. AirTran 19 Airways, Inc., 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 116045, *40, 2009 WL 4827522¹². Finally, 20

21 ¹² In footnote 18, the Larsen case notes that Count III was brought for promissory 22 estoppel. However, it appears to have been wrongfully mislabeled as a state claim 23 for equitable estoppel. The court easily managed it (and even did a federal common 24 claim analysis as well). In a matter of coincidence, the Court cites a United States 25 Supreme Court case argued (and won 9-0) by Plaintiff's father, S. Sheldon 26 Weinhaus (who passed in 2021). Larsen at *40 (citing Geissal v. Moore Med. Corp., 27 524 U.S. 74 (1998). The case has little relevance to this matter but for the fact that 28 Plaintiff taught with his father's strategy (the inimitable S. Sheldon Weinhaus 1931-2021) for that case for the Defendant's and its student's benefit. See

1 the broad prayer for equitable relief in the FAC allows the Court to consider either 2 (or both) theories as appropriate here, with the Defendant having plenty of notice.

3 Count VIII should proceed as a standalone estoppel claim (promissory) and 4 the Defendant's should be estopped by conduct from arguing no contract exists.

5 E. The Unjust Enrichment Count Should Survive Because Defendant Has 6 Failed To Show There Are No Methods By Which Plaintiff Can Prevail
7 And The FAC Requests All Non-Monetary Equitable Remedies

8 An unjust enrichment claim prevents an injustice. “The underlying idea 9 behind quantum meruit is the law's distaste for unjust enrichment. If one has 10 received a benefit which one may not justly retain, one should ‘restore the aggrieved 11 party to his [or her] former position by return of the thing or its equivalent in 12 money.’ Maglica v. Maglica, 66 Cal. App. 4th 442, 449 (1998) (citation omitted).
13 California courts allow quantum meruit against public entities. County of Santa 14 Clara v. Superior Court 14 Cal.5th 1034, 1047 (2023). Defendant cannot cover all 15 defenses and thus cannot rule out quantum meruit.

16 Count IX for Unjust Enrichment should proceed for another, more mundane 17 reason. It will not challenge the Court to surmise from the FAC or the request for 18 remedies¹³ that Plaintiff wants to provide the public benefit of education promised 19 him by Defendant. Government immunities as such simply do not apply to non-20 monetary relief. Cal. Gov't Code § 814¹⁴ (“Nothing in this part affects liability based

21 22 5/21/25) (“No Matter How Little It Is, We Are Going To The Supreme Court If 23 Necessary”)

24 ¹³ Defendant spends time in its brief in a pointless endeavor to specifically strike
25 punitive damages which were conditioned by “where permitted by law.” Plaintiff’s 26 FAC also asks for “just and proper” legal relief. None of this is affected by 27 Defendant’s premature look at damage types available, when that also includes granting Plaintiff the opportunity to teach again. ECF # 24 pgs. 51-52.

28 ¹⁴ This statutory framework is important to understand for the distinction in Count on contract or the right to obtain relief other than money or damages against a public entity or public employee.”). Count IX for Unjust Enrichment should proceed.

III. CONCLUSION

5 For the reasons stated above, Plaintiff requests the Court to deny the Motion, 6 or to convert the motion to a summary judgment proceeding, or grant Plaintiff leave 7 to otherwise amend.
